Aldermen Pass Resolution Adopted By Common Council Recently

SAFETY FROM FIRES

Resolution Providing For Establishment of Fire Alarm System Throughout the City.

Many matters of importance were considered by the city council at its meeting last night, among which was the question of collecting taxes from property owners in the annexed territory; report from special committee investigating fire conditions, together with a considerable volume of routine business.

Common Council.

A resolution to idemnify all persons living in the annexed territory who pay their taxes to the city against loss, because of the legality of the question being raised as to who has the right to collect these taxes, was referred to the finance committee.

Councilman Pohl, said he understood several residents of the annexed territory had offered their taxes to the city, but the city refused to accept them.

According to Councilman Bryan, the tax bills for this territory will be in the hands of the collector within the next few days.

In West End, formerly a part of the annexed territory, the taxes have been collected by the county treasurer as the city would not accept them according to Councilman Ballenger.

A resolution that the clerk of council make out the tax bills for the recently annexed territory was adopted.

The special committee investigating fire conditions in the city sent a report to council recommending the installation of a fire telegraph alarm system, electrical inspection, revision of building laws, and added in its report that question of adequate water supply will be taken up later. They expressed hope that early action would be taken by council, believing that unless action is taken there would be an increase in fire insurance rates in the city which would mean the payment of about $20,000 additional in premiums by property owners. The communication was signed by R. L. Payne, acting chairman and Kenneth Ogden, secretary. This was referred to the joint committee on finance, fire and general laws.

Another communication was also received from the subcommittee investigating fire conditions in which they set forth that the question of adequate water supply is to be looked into by an engineer representing the Board of Fire Underwriters' Association and one representing the Alexandria Water Company who will shortly get together on this matter. They asked also that the fire committee be authorized to get an opinion as to adequate fire alarm system and report its finding as soon as possible. Endorsement was given the purchase of the combination engine which will soon be received by the city. This was referred to the joint committee on finance, fire and general laws.

A resolution that the city make a temporary loan of not more than $60,000 at a rate of interest not to exceed four and one half per cent to tide it over for the fiscal year, ending May 31, 1916, was referred to the finance committee.

Resolution appropriating $29,295.50 less $6,000 for public schools was referred to the finance committee.

The street committee recommended that the request of the Mutual Ice Company to give to the Mount Vernon estate 40 yards of cobblestones recently given it by the city for a specific purpose be not granted.

Councilman F. F. Marbury, chairman of the street committee, said the committee did not think it was within its power to authorize the giving away of the stones.

Councilman Brockett, hoped council would give the stones to Mount Vernon. He recalled the close ties which existing between Alexandria and Mt. Vernon and added that he would prefer to table the matter rather than have the outside world know Alexandria had refused old stones to be placed on the historic estate.

Councilman H. R. Burke, agreed with Mr. Brockett, and he thought it would be bad taste not to give the stones. Mr. Burke also expressed hope that the estate will always be continued under the direction of the Ladies' Association.

If the stones are given to Mount Vernon, Councilman Harrison, favored the city giving them and not the Mutual Ice Company, to which Mr. Brockett agreed.

On motion of Councilman Bales the report of the committee was adopted and then on resolution of Councilman H. R. Burke, the city donated the stones to Mount Vernon, they to pay cost of hauling.

An adverse report was made on petition of G. W. Lewis, asking for $25 for Robert Rust, who claimed such because of damages, to his vehicle, September 29, when his horse ran away during a fire.

Councilman Brockett, thought it best for the city to compromise the case, as it might have to employ additional counsel and he asserted, it would be more expensive with two attorneys.

Councilman Bryan said the committee investigating saw no justice in the claim. Bill of S. L. Monroe assessor, for $440 for 220 days' work from the city and an equal amount from the state making $880, was referred to finance committee.

Petition for improving Pitt street between King and Prince streets, with a bituminous macadam roadway and granite curbing and vitrified brick gutters, and an estimate of $4,000 for the work from the city engineer, was referred to committee on finance and streets.

According to Councilman Bales a bituminous roadway would cost about forty per cent less than vitrified bricks.

An estimate of $6,800 for a 27 foot roadway with granite curbing and cement sidewalks on Commerce street from Prince to Stone Bridge was referred to finance and streets committee.

In both of the foregoing it was set forth that the abutting property owners would pay their pro rata of cost of construction.

Resolution appropriating $500 to grade Fayette street between Princess and Oronoco street, was referred to street and finance committees.

The sum of $10 was appropriated for metallic ash cans for city hall to be used under Masonic Temple and Masons given permission to use similar cans for their ashes.

The street and light committee, on resolution of Councilman Ballenger for grading of Emerson Lane from Duke street to diagonal road, recommended the matter be referred to the general laws committee, as to rights of city and report legal width of street, etc. This was referred to general laws committee.

The sum of $200 was appropriated for sewer on Wythe street between Washington and Columbus street.

F. F. Marbury, presented a petition of Frederick P. Russell, asking that the Russell road runing through the annexed territory be so called. Petitioner set forth he gave right of way for road for nearly half a mile and recently he noticed that signs had been changed to read Mount Vernon avenue.

Councilman Marbury, explained that two Mount Vernon avenues would confuse things and the committee had called it the Russell road. This was referred to the street committee.

Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged was given a gas bill of $4.20 for gas used at its bazaar, held recently in Armory Hall.

Resolution of Councilman Desmond to allow Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged $71.30 for sewer tap to its home referred to finance and street committee.

Stewart Simpson, living at the southwest corner of Alfred and Wilkes streets, petitioned council to take action against Southern Railway Company from blowing out its flues in the manner in which it does. It created, he set forth in his petition, a black substance making it impossible to hang out clothes on line without having to rewash them. This was referred to general laws committee.

Resolution of Councilman Taylor Burke appropriating $300 for improvements to Friendship Engine Company's house, refered to finance and public property committee.

BULGARS MEET WITH DEFEAT

Forces in Full Retreat in Southern Part of Serbia

VELES IS IN DANGER

Italian Troops About to Strike Across Country and at Flank of Austro-Germans.

Paris, Nov. 24.— The Bulgarians have been defeated everywhere in the extreme south of Serbia, and are in retreat at all points, says a Serbian official statement received here today.

As far north as Veles, the Bulgars are reported falling back upon Istip. Veles itself is said to be in imminent danger of recapture from them.

London, Nov. 24.—Italian troops now landing on the Albanian coast, strike at once across country for the Serbian frontier, according to Swiss advices today.

The Italian plan is understood to be to strike at the flank of the Austro-German forces engaged in the southern drive through Serbia. Montenegrin forces are expected to cooperate with them.

The march across Albania is but forty or fifty miles, but will be attended with great difficulty owing to the mountainous country and absence of roads.

The Daily News correspondent at Rotterdam wires:

"An important message bearing on the imminence of Russian action in the Balkans is issued by the Berlin semi-official agency. The message is dated from Bucharest, the agency itself apparently taking full authority for its dissemination. It says:

"'The Czar, and Czarevitch yesterday arrived at Renia to inspect the newly formed army equipped for action against Bulgaria. The Czar will remain three days at Reni. At that place there will be held in readiness 80,000 men, at Ismail 70,000 men, and at Odessa 200,000 men. This army is said to be very well equipped and ready to take the field, so in the immediate future new events may be expected upon the Balkan front in the neighborhood of the Roumanian frontier."

Geneva, Switzerland, November 24.—Carrying the Austrian positions between Salventino and Podgora by a smashing charge, the Italians have taken two forts defending the Podenora bridge, on the Isonzo line, according to news received here today from the front.

A thousand Austrian prisoners fell into the Italians' hands.

Besides the two forts captured, two more were demolished by the Italian artillery. A terrific bombardment of the whole Austrian Osonzo front continues today.

Every day sees an increase in the violence of the Italian assault on Goritz. Shells are literally being showered upon the Austrian positions at the bridge head. Both sides are steadily strengthening their forces. Losses have been enormous.

The Italians have suffered more heavily than the Austrians, fighting in defended positions.

The Italian shell fire has wrought fearful destruction among the Austrians, however, Where the two forces have come to close quarters, which had occured repeatedly, the number of their killed and wounded has been frightful.

Round About Thanksgiving Time

O H, the time is getting nearer when
I'll pack my grip and fly
To the little home off yonder where the meadows touch the sky,
Where the cribs are fairly bursting with the corn they've gathered in
And the orchards now are sleeping till the days of spring begin,
Where the dear old mother waits me and the dear old dad looks wise
As he views the shining turkey and the row of pumpkin pies,
And I almost hear him chuckle: "It's Thanksgivin' day once more!
Soon a mighty hungry feller will be knockin' at the door."

"WHERE THE DEAR OLD MOTHER WAITS ME."

I can see the dear old mother in the kitchen baking things
That would glad the eyes and palates of the proud at above kings
I can see the pumpkin glowing as she fills the snow white crust,
And my soul this very minute feels the old time wanderlust.
Oh, I'll soon be treading backward o'er the paths that once I knew
To the old home in the valley, to the old folks, good and true.
You were right, dad, when you chuckled as you paced the kitchen floor,
"Soon a mighty hungry feller will come knockin' at the door."

You can bet I'm mighty hungry—mighty hungry just to see
The old smiles beaming brightly and to feel the'r all for me.
Oh, I'm hungry just to kiss you and to feel your arms again
Sort of loving-like around me as you once embraced me when I was leaving for the city, and I'm hungry just to squeeze
Dear old mother as I used to and to sit upon her knees.
Oh, there is no use denying it's Thanksgiving day once more.
"Soon a mighty hungry feller will come knockin' at the door."

REV. DR. DUNAWAY DEAD

One of Best-Known Baptist Ministers in Virginia Passes Away In Fredericksburg

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 24—The Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Dunaway, one of the best-known Baptist ministers of this state, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Annie D. Baker in his eighty-sixth year.

Dr. Dunawa was born in Lancaster county November 5, 1829, son of Thomas Sanford Dunaway. His education was received at his home from private tutors. In Kilmarnock Academy and in the office of Major Samuel Gresham, where he studied law. He practiced law in Lancaster for several years, but in 1860 he entered the Baptist ministry, being ordained at Lebanon church. When the civil war broke out he sought to enlist in the Confederate army, but was rejected on account of his health.

Accepting a call to the Fredericksburg Baptist Church, Dr. Dunaway came to this city in 1866 and was its pastor for 32 years, resigning in 1898. Coming to the church at the close of the war, when its membership was small and scattered, he built it up to be one of the largest churches in the state, more than trebling its membership.

Several institutions of learning honored Dr. Dunaway with degrees. Richmond College conferred on him the degree of doctor of divinity and elected him a trustee in 1875. He was also a trustee of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville.

CONFERENCE BEGINS TODAY

Educators Addressed on Advantages of Community School

AN EARNEST APPEAL

Virginia Teachers Will Indorse Minimum Salary Law and Longer School Terms in State.

Richmond, Nov. 24—The questions of the community school for the rural districts of Virginia—the school that will be at once the social, educational and industrial center of the community in which it is situated—is likely to come for a large share of the attention of the Virginia Educational Conference, which met here today in tenth annual session. Already the question has been discussed at some length by the board of directors of the conference, which held a session yesterday afternoon at Murphy's Hotel, and by a number of district superintendents, school trustees, officers of the Co-Operative Educational Association, and their invited guests, who met the board of directors at an informal luncheon just before the committee' regular session.

A. P. Bourland, of Washington, secretary of the Southern Educational Conference, was the principal speaker at the luncheon, and delivered a forceful address on the many advantages that would, of necessit, accrue to the rural district with the community school. Mr. Bourland drew his lessons from the system which is in vogue in Germany, where all farm life and community activity is centered around the village school, which even serves as a banking institution to its rural patrons.

Throughout a large portion of Virginia, especially in the undeveloped mountain sections, the one-room school-house, a relic of a less progressive time, is still the one fountain of Knowledge. Mr. Bourland, in common with a great majority of present-day educators, would have these "little red school-houses on the hill," whenever practicable, give way to a modernly constructed four room-building—a place suitable to serve as the meeting house of the entire community, come together in social intercourse or to discuss problems relative to its industrial life.

As an addition to the school property, Mr. Bourland would have the State purchase a tract of land of from five to fifty acres, which would serve the triple purpose of a home for the principal, a school demonstration farm and a community experiment station. A banking feature—a system by which the school would receive savings deposits and transfer them to the custody of a local bank—would, he thinks, materially encourage a spirit of thrift both among the pupils and the community at large.

Recommendations in the annual report of the board of Directors of the Virginia Educational Conference, adopted yesterday in executive session will constitute the keynote of the convention's deliberations, and are of more than passing interest to the publicat large. This report will be submitted to the educators toward the latter part of the week, and, unless custom is broken, will be adopted in its entierty.

The board puts itself on record as favoring the present method of local option in the matter of compulsory education, suggesting, however, that the law be so changed or amended as to compel the attendance at school of children between the ages of eight and twelve years for the entire school session, instead of "at least twelve weeks," as the statute now provides. Any school division in the State, under the Virginia statute, may at any time adopt by election of the qualified voters the compulsory education provision.

The board also favors an increase of the State school tax on real estate and tangible personal property from 10 cents on the $100 to 20 cents, the proceeds to be apportioned on the basis of school population, and suggests a local tax of 50 cents on the $100 in every county and district in the State. A general appropriation of at least $1,500,000 from the State treasury to be used for general educational purposes is also recommended.

The board will ask that the conference importune the next General Assembly for an increased appropriation for the Teachers' Retirement Fund, this year having found a deficit in that fund so large as to threaen a reduction in the sum paid over yearly to those teachers who through disabilities and infirmities of age, have been retired from active duty. This fund was created by an act of the Legislature in 1908, which provides that each teacher shall contribute 1 per cent of his or her yearly salary toward its maintenance, the State helping with an annual appropriation of $5,000. Though the number of retired teachers has increased from fifty-five to 400 during the seven years that have elapsed, the State has given no additional help. The next Legislature will be asked to make an annual appropriation of $15,000.

An increase in teachers' salaries is also urged by the board of directors. Efforts will probably be made to have the Legislature enact a minimum salary law, fixing $40 as the lowest salary to be paid a holder of a first-grade certificate. The importance of a school term of at least seven months in every country school of the State is also urged.

Cape Giradeau Mo., Nov. 24—A band of farm laborers, which had been waging a war of depredation on the property of their employers clashed in a marsh near Clarkton, Mo. with a posse of private detectives, with the result that seven of the laborers and two officers were wounded.

TO THE ALEXANDRIA PUBLIC

It has been reported that our present "closing out sale, of musical instruments in our Alexandria warehouse at 119 north Fairfax street, is necessitated by our "failure in business," and a consequent forced retirement.

We respectfully announce that such statements are utterly false and have no foundation whatever in fact.

Our business was never so large as at present, as is evidenced by the fact we have just expended about $3,000.00 in extensive alterations and additions to our magnificent four-story warehouse in Washington.

The increasing demands of our enlarged patronage, have caused us to provide additional Victrola demonstration booths and piano salesrooms, of the most modern and attractive style.

Our tenancy in Alexandria will expire on the night of November 30, and we have decided to close this branch temporarily in order to plan for better facilities and service for our many Alexandria friends and patrons.

We have received, and are receiving daily, shipments of several carloads of the latest 1916 models of Mason & Hamlin, Conover, Kingsbury, Wellington and Foster pianos, and the wonderful Carola and Euphona Inner Player Pianos, and we cordially invite all Alexandrians to our Foster Building at 1330 G street, to inspect this new stock.

In the Meantime, we must move the few pianos now at 119 north Fairfax street, and no reasonable offer will be refused.

There are only four business days left, as the goods will positively be sold, or moved back to Washington on December 1st.

Dont miss this opportunity, as it will not knock at your door soon again.

Special inducements to all cash buyers, but easy terms can be arranged with responsible purchasers.

Why not secure one of these fine bargains, even if you anticipate your Xmas purchases?

It will pay you to store it until the holiday season.

Remember, November 30 is the last sale day.

M. E. CONFERENCE CLOSES SESSION

Richmond Is Selected as Meeting Place of Body in 1916

LIQUOR QUESTION UP

Report of Committee on Temperance Urges Statewide Prohibition Without Any Exceptions.

Norfolk ,Va., Nov. 24— The Virginia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South adjourned here late last night, after the appointments had been made.

Richmond was selected for the sessions of the conference in 1916.

The first business before the conference at the evening session was the report of the committee on temperance and social reform.

Dr. James Cannon, Jr., submitted the report and it was adopted without discussion. The preamble emphasized the importance of Christian citizenship upon the part of Christian men, emphasizing their duty to the State as well as to the church.

The first resolution recommended that the conference indorse the position of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia; that the General Assembly of next year pass a general Statewide prohibition law which shall contain no exceptions as to wineries or breweries, and which shall contain all the prohibitory and law enforcement provisions necessary to secure genuine prohibition in Virginia, so that by the passage of such a law there may be no possibility of any effort being made to obstruct or delay the operation of the prohibition law by appeals to the courts on the basis of imaginary defects in the enabling act, as passed by the General Assembly and adopted by the vote of the people.

This recommendation urged, furthermore, that the conference agree with the declared policy of the league, calling for such provisions in the law as will secure State-wide enforcement, if necessary by a State department, and as will require officers of the law to enforce the prohibition laws upon pain of removal in the event of direliction of duty in the enforcement of the laws.

The above is the first recommendation of the report, and the other eight recommendations were as strong touching the various phases of the work.

The net gain in members reported for the year was 3,896.

On motion of James Cannon, the joint board of finance was instructed to place an assessment on the conference covering the pledge of this conference and that this assessment be paid within three years.

The remainder of the morning session was occupied with the presentation and adoption of reports of conference boards and committees.

MUSICAL AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The attraction at the Opera House for Thursday Friday, and Saturday, of this week will be the Jackson and Andrews Musical Comedy Company, in a repertoire of clean, classy, musical comedies! and Manager Sickels thinks that he has struck the weak spot of the amusement loving people of Alexandria. If there is anything which appeals to the vaudeville patrons it is musical comedy with lots of singing, dancing and good comedians. Unlike other shows, the above named company has adapted itself to music which is new and refined and is presenting a performance which is a real entertainment. The Jackson and Andrews company come to Alexandria, highly recommended after having several weeks run in the larger cities, and Manager Sickels, is more than pleased to have secured this clever company for the last three days of the week. The opening bill is entitled "The Fascinating Widow," staged with special scenery and electrical effects, and is a rollicking, wholesome sketch that can't help hitting the funny bone and affords ample opportunity for introducing novelties in which the individual merits of the company are shown to good advantage.

Open 8:30 a. m. Closed 5:30 p n. Saturday until 6 P. M.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Interesting News Notes About People of Alexandria—Happenings In Society.

Mrs. Charles Creighton Carlin, received yesterday afternoon from four to six at her residence in north Washington street, in honor of Mrs. Frederick Webster. The spacious drawing rooms were festive with giant chrysanthemums nodding from many bowls and vases and autumn foliage in brilliant sprays met the eye from nook and corner. Sweetly rendered selections from a stringed orchestra added to the attractive forms of entertainment. In the dining room where Miss Emily Johnson, Miss Esther Green, Miss Josephine Broadus, Miss Ferniver, Miss Sophie Tackett, and Miss Murphy, graciously attended the guests, was found Mr. Turkey Gobbler, arrayed in all of his glory of shiny grey-black feathers, perched upon a golden cake and flanked by crimson striped cornucopias, entertwined with flowers, pleasantly anticipating the near at hand, Thanksgiving Day, a triumph of the confectioner's skill. The yellow shaded candles tinting the ribbon-bound dainties completed the table-lain scene. Vis-a-vis, manipulating their respective coffee and tea urns, Mrs. William Smith and Miss Broadus, served the guests.

Mrs. Llewellyn Powell, was the hostess at a charmingly appointed tea yesterday afternoon in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Thornton Ashton, an October bride. Receiving with Mrs. Powell, in addition to her guest of honor, was Mrs. Mary Powell. The reception rooms repeated the idea of the wonderfully pretty fall season, we have had this year, with its lingering of crimson and gold foliage. The dining room presented a most attractive scene with a group of daintily attired young girls, in attendance around a table whose centre bore a mass of golden chrysanthemums based by a twining of scarlet leaves and surronded by silver candle sticks, with scarlet tapers a-light. At the ends of the table Mrs. Louis Scott and Miss Dorsey Ashton, precided. The young ladies assisting were Miss Lucy Uhler, Miss Mary Snowden, Miss Edith Snowden, Miss Elsie Snowden, and Miss Julia Boswell. The combination of teas in the same block brought out numbers of guests, and rarely has a day in Alexandria proved more social than yesterday.

Mr. J. H. Harrington entertained a large number of relatives and friends last evening in the nature of a surprise party given in honor of the birthday anniversary of his wife, Mrs. Laura Harrington. A very pleasing musical program was rendered by Mr. Henri Kramer, Violinist, with Miss Camille DeLane at the piano. Among those present were several out of town guests.

Mrs. Estella J. Clark, of Washington announces the marriage of her daughter, Pauline Sophie Kincheloe to Mr. Joseph Russell Bolton of this city. Mr. Bolton is connected with the firm of Charles King and Sons. The ceremony took place in Washington yesterday.

Miss Sava Eddington of King St. Road left this morning for Delaware, to visit relatives and friends.

Miss Jessie Crump is spending the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. John Howard Irvin of Bellwood, Pa.

Former Ironworker's Officer So Testifies of McNamara.

Los Angeles, Cal. Nov. 24.—Patrick J. Dugan, a former officer of the Indianapolis union of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, testified yesterday in the murder trial of Mathew A. Schmidt that John J. McNamara, head of the dynamiting conspiracy in which Schmidt, is alleged to have had a part, had threatened in 1906 the destruction of a cathedral then in course of construction in Indianapolis.

Dugan said that he, McNamara, who was secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and Eugene Clancy, a labor leader of San Francisco, now serving a Federal sentence, went to look at the cathedral and McNamara said:

"When they place nonunion men on this job you write me a letter saying you need some of it, I will know what you mean and I will send some one here to blow this place to h—."

Dugan said he objected at one time to the custom of the international union of reimbursing local unions for expenses incurred in dynamitings and McNamara told him to shut up.

When a severe cold settles on the lungs it is called bronchitis. There is danger of its leading to broncho pneumonia, and for this reason it is always best to go to bed and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed until well along toward recovery. Mrs. Charles E. Woodard, Sandy Creek, N. Y. writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured me of bronchitis last fall. When I began using it I was so hoarse at times that it was difficult for me to speak above a whisper. I resorted to the use of this valuable medicine, and found it very soothing and healing. PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

In accordance with our usual custom the Gazette will not be issued tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day. We trust that our readers will enjoy the holiday.

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

Tomorrow will be generally observed throughout the United States as a day for expressing appreciation for the continuation of the blessings of heaven upon our North American nation. Provided with full and plenty and with the dove of peace still dwelling with us, there is no reason why old and young alike cannot enter into the spirit of the occasion.

But few people in the Occident ever examine forms of faith save their own, and, unfortunately, many are remiss in realizing the fact that we live in a country ever blessed. Many who know no faith save that imparted by the Great Teacher nineteen hundred years ago could learn something in the way of thanksgiving from the followers of the camel driver, as Mahomet, is called, A good Mussulman, after having experienced success in any enterprise, commercial or otherwise, expresses his thanks by his works. He invariably lays aside a certain percentage of his gains for the benefit of the poor. During the time Sindbad the Sailor was recounting his wonderful and lucrative voyages to Hindbad it will be remembered that he always added at the end of each story that he laid aside so much for the poor upon his arrival safe at home.

The disciples of Christ are also to remember the unfortunate ,and many individuals as well as organizations will tomorrow send out substantial reminders to those who are struggling against poverty. Such acts, added to our prayers, we are assured will be acceptable, as we are told that pure and undefiled religion before God is to visit the widow and fatherless in their affliction in addition to keeping ourselves unspotted from the world.

NEW TESTAMENT ANENT PREPAREDNESS.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot calls attention the fact that it was a custom of John E. Massey when engaged in political campaigning to make stump speeches for "the ticket," all the week and then preach on Sunday in the nearest church of his denomination. Similarly William J. Bryan often passes from the lecture platform to the pulpit and has so acquired quasi standing as an authority on religious topics. He recently regretted that President Wilson had quoted from the Old Testament rather than the New when seeking Scriptural warrant for the decrine of self-defense, implying that the new dispensation had rendered valueless the teachings of the old.

A correspondent says that he would like to have Mr. Bryan's interpretation on two excerpts from the Gospel. One, which he credits to St. Paul, says: "He that careth not for his own household is worse than an infidel." The other from St. Luke ascribes these words to the Master: "Then said He unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it and likewise his scrip; and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one."

The Gazette desires to propound another question. The Apostle Peter refers to certain specimens of the genus homo whom he likens unto brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed. Does Mr. Bryan fail to see such at present?.

GREECE HAS HER PRICE.

According to more or less veracious accounts, a couple of months ago Greece would have been on the side of the Allies had it agreed that in dispatching an army to aid them in a march upon Constantinople, Greece would stop its forces ten miles short of the city, the control of which is coveted by the Russians. Now it is said that the situation has been lifted, although Greece is determined that in case it should aid the ambitions of Russia upon Constantinople it will do so only for a price that will compensate for such extraordinary worth of service.

A confemporary suggests that the little kingdom is between the nippers of the Teuton forces and their Turkish and Bulgar Allies upon land, and the fleet of the Allies, maintaining at present a commercial blockade of the country, upon the sea. In this predicament it must decide either to afford freedom of movement for the Allies over its soil or else intern the Serbian army when this shall retire before the Bulgars to Greek soil.

The question of Greek alliance has been one of benefit and undoubtedly the Allies have shaken the bag and should Greece accede to their demands it will be due to the fact that the inducement has been made sufficiently attractive. There has undoubtedly bee nsharp secret diplomatic play in the Greek alliance contest that will ramify for many years in influence for good or ill of the Greek people according to the fortunes of war.

THE WAR OF EXHAUSTION.

The question which one hears most frequently now is, How much longer will the the war in Europe last?

The Germans have lost nothing in the field in the last six months and have made great gains in territory in Galicia, Poland, Russia and recently in the Balkans. But they have not solved the vital problem that confronts them as well as the Allies, and the burden which they all bear has only grown heavier and more hopeless. All of the belligerents are putting on a brave face and all of them are endeavoring to conceal their real distress. But their own admissions make it clear that they are rapidly approaching a point where exhaustion may force them to consider the question of peace.

The Baltimore Sun says:

So far as Germany's military strength is concerned, she still is more than able to hold her own. The Allies cannot drive her out of France and Belgium and the Russians cannot drive her out of Russia. And there seems no immediate prospects of wresting the Balkans from her. From a purely military point of view she is in the ascendant. But a devouring fox is gnawing at her vitals. The food question and the financial question are sapping her strength under the surface and undermining the national power of resistance. She is virtually in a state of seige, and though she has enlarged the boundaries of her prison she has not lessened her burdens on added anthing permanent to her living resources.

Similar burdens are bearing heavily upon England, France, Russia, Italy, Turkey, Servia and Bulgaria.

Before Supreme Court Justice Gavegan in New York, yesterday she testified she kept her father's "double life" a secret upon her uncle's promise to give her half of his estate at his death. As he left her the income from only $20,000 she is now suing for the promised half.

The informal suggestion of the entente powers that China join the allies, thus solidifying the near East, has not been well received by President Yuan Shi Kai, who is not willing to bandon neutrality and sacrifice German good will. Japan apparently has not participated in the suggestion, which is believed to be of British origin.

Dispatches of a semi-official nature received in Washington indicate that practically a state of anarchy exists in Persia. According to the reports, troops of various nations are doing as they please in certain sections, the government being powerless to curb their action. Many government officials are said to have fled from the areas in which the serious conditions prevail.

All records have been broken in the shipment of turkeys from Southwest Texas, to northern markets, for the holiday season. Reports from 17 counties in the San Antonio section, which supply many of the birds, for Thanksgiving, showed that 46,000 turkeys had been sent East during the past 10 days. The turkey crop this year was said to have been the largest in the history of Texas.

Two shipments of gold valued at $15,750.000, which arrived yesterday at New York, on board the steamers Lapland and St. Paul, were landed. The Lapland brought $7,000,000, while the St. Paul carried $3,850,000 in gold specie and $4,900,000 in bullion. Most of the gold was consigned to New York banking houses to pay for war munitions ordered by the British government.

A murder mystery that has puzzled the Providence, R. I., police for two days was solved early yesterday when Peleg E. Champlin, a general inspector for the Rhode Island Company, confessed that he killed Frederick H. Bishop, in the latter's home Sunday morning. Champlin said that he had quarreled with his victim over Mrs. Bishop, but absolved the widow of blame in every respect.

King Constantine of Greece yesterday put this plain proposition to the allies: "Assure Greece of safety against the Bulgarians and their Teutonic allies in case you abandon your Balkan expedition and the Greek army will demobilize." This is virtually a reply to Lord Kitchener's reported declaration to Greek officials that England will, by next March, have 4,000,000,000 soldiers under arms and be prepared to provision 6,000,000 Russians.

Gordon Thomasson, aged 14, one of the best-known caddies employed at the Albermarle Golf Club links died at a Charlottesville hospital Monday night from injuries received late Sunday afternoon while attempting to board a freight train which was passing near the Charlottesville Woolen Mills. Both legs were so badly mangled that they had to be amputated. The lad was a son of the late George Thomasson, and was born near Covington.

The election of John T. Fitzpatrick as Treasurer of Nelson county at the recent election is being contested by W. B. Lee, his opponent, over whom he was given a majority of 50 votes. Various irregularities are charged at the Massie's Mills, Tye River and Arrington precincts. It is expected that the present session of the court, which began Tuesday, will consider the petition, which was filed by 15 voters of the county.

The table knife which Mrs. Elizabeth Hockeberger finally persuaded surgeons she had swallowed while in a delirium due to illness eight months ago was taken from her stomach yesterday by an operation at the West Side Hospital. The knife was corroded and saw-edged, from the action of stomach acids, and physicians said that nature had made heroic efforts to digest the implement. The woman rallied well from the operation.

"So far as the western front is concerned, Germany is beaten," said John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalist party, just returned to London, from a visit to the army in France. "Every day, ever hour she is getting weaker. For every shell she throws at us we throw five. There are no pessimists among our men fighting there. From the commander-in-chief down through all the ranks of the army there is a feeling of absolute confidence as to the results of the war."

Earl Cummins, a Harrisonburg youth, told the Harrisonburg police yesterday that a man named W. F. Hall, hypnotized him into turning over $75 in cash and a diamond ring valued at $69 in order to obtain a very lucrative position. Cummins says that when he went to Hall's office, where he held forth as a palmist, the man was gone. And so was the ring, money and job. "He told me that it was necessary to give him the money and the ring in order to make a showing," says Cummins, "and that I must come back to his office Saturday morning." Hall, who came to Harrisonburg about two weeks ago and opened an office, is said to have gone to Washington. He claimed to have practiced his "profession" in Richmond and Petersburg for five years.

Her Thanksgiving Pie

"I HOPE he'll like it," said Ruth Harkness to herself as she put the seasoning into the rich mince pies she was making. There was one—she held an old fashioned green edged scalloped plate in her hand and looked at it thoughtfully—yes, there was just meat enough for one more pie. She would sprinkle it full of whole raisins, carefully stoned, and a clove stuck in each one, and she would put a little butter in—just a little, lest it might not be rich enough—and about a spoonful of brown sugar, to make it extra sweet and dark, and then she would save it—she knew for what. It was only that perhaps John Prouty would come around on Thanksgiving evening.

John was always fond of mince pies, as she remembered perfectly well, and now his mother was dead, and he was living at Uncle James', and Aunt James Prouty had rheumatism, and altogether there was not much prospect for John to have any Thanksgiving unless he came there for it.

And so Thanksgiving day came, and there were uncles and cousins and friends of all parties by dozens and dozens gathered beneath Farmer Harkness' hospitable roof, and in the cool gray twilight, as Ruth flitted back and forward, always intent on some busy mission, she was watching down the lane for John. She would know his broad shoulders and his well worn brown surtout, and even as she watched they came in sight—they and a bright plaid cloak which belonged to the schoolmistress from Jerseyville. Ruth set her mouth in close line at night.

So that was where John was going for Thanksgiving—and he had dropped there taking tea—she remembered that girl didn't know that Aunt James Prouty's was the place to go for tea and she felt a little disappointed. Well she hoped he'd have a pleasant evening. As for that pretended headache at 6 o'clock—she'd learn her sweet pains while that to where it got a lot of overgrown boys and other drinking men. She'd give it to the pigs—that's what she'd do with it. Nobody else should eat it if John couldn't.

Then as she looked at the pastry that had given her so much pleasure and so much disappointment she said she'd give it to old Ma'am Jefferson, down the valley. She was living there alone, lonesome-like, and it would make her Thanksgiving day happier to know that somebody thought of her up there on the hill.

So when the cider and apples were brought and everybody was merry enough around the kitchen fire and in the neat big square sitting room Ruth stole out with the pie in her hands folded in a white towel, and, tripping lightly across the fields, she knocked at the door of the little cottage where Ma'am Jefferson lived alone, but received no answer. The latchstring was hanging out. She pushed it gently to rattle the latch; but, all hearing no sound from within, she pushed the door open and entered. No one was there, but a big Bible lay open on the stand, and the iron bowed spectacles were upon it. Ma'am Jefferson had evidently been called away in a hurry, probably to see some sick neighbor. Ruth said to herself, and she would be glad to find some trace of loving thoughtfulness when she returned.

Then Ru wrote a little note, said from the feelings that oppressed her, yet kindly from the wealth of her own kind heart, and left it with the pie.

"There's a - manny up at our house," the note said, "and I can't wait until you come back, aunty, but I have put the teakettle over the fire and set the tea drawing, and I hope you will find everything warm and comfortable."

Hours and hours Ruth sat alone by the kitchen fire waiting for the last sound of life to die out in the house that she might rake up the embers and lock the doors, for she was a notable housekeeper, this brave young girl, and took her invalid mother's place as far as possible in all things.

But while she was sitting alone by the kitchen fire she heard a soft rap at the window, and, looking up, she saw John's face in the moonlight, earnest and smiling as he beckoned to her.

In the instant the thought flashed over her, proud and decorous Yankee girl that she was, that he had been spending the evening with Miss Gregory, and it was worse than impertinent for him to call there on his way home. She would not answer his summons. She thought he would go away, and so he did—from the window, but only to come quietly in at the door.

Sitting down on the settee beside her, he spread his hands over the dying embers to warm them and said, with a slight shiver:

"It is chilly out tonight, Ruth, and I have been thinking of you."

She turned up her nose a little at this; but, dreading to hear anything more that she would think was false, she told him very quietly:

"I saw you go down the lane with Miss Gregory early this evening. I should think it most likely that you had been thinking of her since then."

John turned and looked at her, lots of fun brimming up in his brown eyes. But when he saw how tired and sad she looked he answered her gently:

"No, little girl; I have been thinking of you, as I said, and the last thing I did before coming here was to drink a cupful of tea and eat a piece of pie of your making. While I drank the tea I was thinking—no doubt it will sound foolish to you—but I was thinking how every one of those little grains had been cuddled in the palm of your hand as you measured them out, and the pie was as sweet as though you had stirred the mince with your finger before putting it between the crusts."

Ruth was laughing and blushing at his foolish words, and he, enjoying her confession, put up one hand and drew her head down on his shoulder.

"I don't know what you mean," she said presently. "I haven't turned cook for Miss Gregory."

"No," he interrupted her; "I forgot that you didn't know where I had been. Tom Gregory was thrown from a colt tonight, and they thought his leg was broken. His sister came across lots for me to go down there and see what I could do for him. We didn't like to stop at your house for help, because you had so much company, so we went and got Ma'am Jefferson and took her over with us. We made the boy as comfortable as we could, and she said no bones were broken. So then I went home with her, and there was the fire your care had brightened, and the tea and the pie."

The girl's heart was beating very fast as John said, "My Thanksgiving will be complete, Ruth, if you will promise to be my wife."

After they were married she told him that the pie had been made on purpose for him.

A Thanksgiving Song

By ANNETTE KOHN, In Independent

All our days
We give thee praise.
O God, who holdest in Thy hand
And didst exalt and bless our land
And gavest it from sea to sea
To all embracing liberty,
We give thee praise
All our days.

For the golden glow of the orange tree,
For the purple grapes, for the honeybee,
For the waving plumes of the yellow grain,
For the glorious sunshine and for the rain,
The coal in the mine, the ore in the hill,
The throb of the engine, the whistles shrill,
The fire of the forge and the anvil's ring,
For the tinkling phone and the cable string,
The whir of the loom, the clack of the mill,
For the auto's speed and the airship's thrill,
For the horse of flame on the road of steel
And the wireless voice that makes loud appeal,
For our busy marts and our busy streets,
Where the white, black, brown and yellow man meets;
For the strong true arm of the workman brave,
For our churches and schools with power to save,
For hearts of our women, brains of our men,
For the laureled harvest of brush and pen,
For the wealth of herds on the prairies wide,
For the new homes rising on every side,
For the law that shields where our flag is unfurled,
For peace in our land and with all the world.
For our mighty name, in all men's sight,
The pledge we must walk for aye in thy light,
All our days
We give thee praise.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Alexandria Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what an Alexandria citizen says:

William H. Beach, 417 S. Lee St., Alexandria, says: "My back pained me so badly that I could hardly get about. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and during the night I had to get up every little while. I felt so sore and stiff in themorning that I could hardly get out of bed. I was tired and languid and had no ambition to do anything. I finally got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at W. F. Creighton and Son's Drug Store and the first few doses gave me relief. I used about four boxes and they put my kidneys in good condition. My back never aches now and I feel first-class in every way."

The Thanksgiving Table

Vegetables can be used for decoration of the Thanksgiving day dinner table, making an appropriate adornment. The centerpiece can be formed of vegetables piled up in the center of the table. Carrots, turnips, parsnips, sweet and white potatoes, celery tops, a red and a green cabbage, can all be used if they are scrubbed clean and wiped dry. Their colors are beautiful, and if they are neatly mounded and then edged with a border of fresh green parsley they will be quite effective.

About the centerpiece candlesticks formed of vegetables can be grouped. Big carrots make good candlesticks. Cut off the big end to make a solid foundation on which these candlesticks can rest and cut off some of the tapering end so that the end left will be half an inch bigger in diameter than the candles used. Then scoop out a little cup to hold the candle.

Cucumbers cut on one side so that they will sit solidly on the table, with a little cup hollowed in each end, can be used for holding two candles each. Turnips, potatoes and parsnips can all be used.

The place cards to go with this sort of decoration might be hand painted vegetables, with waving, rootlike arms and legs and funny faces formed by the creases and eyes and knots in the vegetable themselves.

There are poppy crackers on sale that would make appropriate favors to go with these vegetable decorations. They cost about $1.25 a dozen. These are decorated with tiny ears of corn, three with tomatoes, three with pumpkins and three with cucumbers. Each contains a favor.

A big paper turkey that costs about $1.25, filled with candies, might serve as the centerpiece, and at each place could be put small paper turkeys, also filled with candy, which cost from 15 to 25 cents apiece.

There are small fruit boxes sold, filled with candies by some confectioners, that are also attractive favors.

More useful favors can be found in the small silk fruits and vegetables that are sold for prices that range from 25 cents to $1. Carrots and parsnips, apples and pears are included in these fruits and vegetables, and they are all pincushions. The tiny vegetable souvenirs that sell for 15 cents each and the tiny wax vegetables and fruits that cost 10 or 15 cents also make appropriate and acceptable favors.

Ever Eat "Spread Eagle" Turkey?

"Spread eagle," a young turkey, split and broiled over a hot wood fire and served with a sauce of chopped oysters, crabs, wild celery and apples mixed with old brandy and Madeira wine, a dish popular among chinmen and army and navy officers, was first brought out by a shipping merchant of New York from fifty to seventy years ago—Jerry Weinberg. He was the inventor of lobster a la Weinberg, which became afterward known as lobster a la Newburg—why Newburg nobody ever knew. Weinberg's bill of fare for his special annual banquet to the good livers of the New York exchanges was land crabs and mangoes from Haiti, "spread eagles," mallard ducks, candied yams, Virginia corn pones, South Carolina boiled rice, apple pie, white brandy, New Jersey peach brandy, claret, champagne and coffee from Aden, Arabia.

Thanksgiving Day

ROBERT BRIDGES in Collier's Weekly

We give thee thanks, O Lord,
Not for armed legions marching in their might,
Not for the glory of the well earned fight
Where brave man slay their brothers, also brave,
But for the millions of thy sons who work
And do thy tasks with joy and never shirk
And deem the idle man a burdened slave.
For these, O Lord, our thanks!

We give thee thanks, O Lord,
Not for the turrets of our men-of-war,
The monstrous guns and deadly steel they pour
To crush our foes and make them bow the knee,
But for the homely sailors of thy deep,
The tireless fisher folk who banish sleep
And lure a living from the mizer sea.
For these, O Lord, our thanks!

"THE PIONEERS WHO PLOW THE FIELD, MAKE DESERTS BLOSSOM AND THE MOUNTAINS YIELD."

We give thee thanks, O Lord,
Not for the mighty men who pile up gold,
Not for the plunder millions bought and sold
And all the arrogance of pomp and greed
But for the pioneers who plow the field,
Make deserts blossom and the mountains yield
The hidden treasures for man's daily need.
For these, O Lord, our thanks!

We give thee thanks, O Lord,
Not for the hands that wealth has [illegible]
Where toil is mortified, duty dimly known
And [illegible] dance the [illegible]
But for the [illegible] where love is [illegible]
[illegible] chil-
[illegible] our thanks!

[illegible] where the Thanksgiving [illegible] "Let in the sunshine and [illegible] the room." To think [illegible] and warmly responsive to the glad privileges and joys of our calling is sound sense, good religion and a perpetual feast. We thus get at the facts and throw experience into the proper perspective. If the heart is in tune all our surroundings catch the melody. Things are largely as we think they are, and to maintain a cheerful spirit at all seasons is the first step toward proving the dictum of Goethe that man is not the victim but he is the architect of his circumstances.

The American spirit sanctions this by celebrating Thanksgiving on the threshold of winter. By so much may we learn that the lowest denominator of life's seasons is far richer than we commonly imagine.

And thereby we can afford to take another look at an old score of assets. Health, friends, food, raiment, home, country, work, mind and manhood—all stand substantial as ever. But they also mean more to us in this day than they could possibly import in the "bad old times" of our ancestors. And in this favored land some of these items mean more than they express within any other nation on the globe. We cannot dictate the harvest of nature. The all around harvest of domestic and social conditions which in America ranks humanity in men higher than titles and makes the modern artisan better circumstanced than ancient kings is a blessing for which above all it becomes our citizens to be thankful.—Philadelphia Press.

One Cause For Thanksgiving.

Although our sky looks dull and gray
As we approach Thanksgiving day,
We all may see one golden ray
Strike through the storm clouds murky,
For he is an ungrateful beast
Who, coming to this annual feast,
Cannot give thanks for this at least—
That he is not a turkey!
—George H. Morewood in New York Sun.

One Little Boy's Thanksgiving

A CERTAIN Little Boy who lives in a family where children and holidays and dogs are all important factors in everyday life was talking about the next holiday. The Little Boy has a trait common to childhood of living largely in anticipation and very little in memory.

On the morning of Dec. 26 he awakes unfatigued and alert, not to discuss yesterday's triumphs nor the wholesale unwise generosity of uncles and aunts. No, indeed! He begins his list for next Christmas.

This Little Boy had finished a glorious period of Halloween preparations. There was nothing he had not cut and painted and planned that the mind of a five-year-old child could conceive of. He had had a glorious month of anticipation, and it had been crowned by a satisfactory Halloween revel, but memory was to him only an incentive to further pursuit of joy, not a state wherein to rest awhile.

"What's the next holiday, mamma?" asked Little Boy.

"Thanksgiving, dear," answered mamma rather absently. Memory lingers with mamma, as there is debris enough to keep any feast in her soul for a day or so.

"Oh, goodie! How soon is it?"

"About three weeks."

"Oh, that is a long time! Will it be ready?"

"Why, we make p[illegible]

"What [illegible]?"

"Plum p[illegible]

"And [illegible]

"Lots and lots [illegible]

"But—but, mamma, do you mean that Thanksgiving is just [illegible] eating?" [illegible] the boy [illegible]

Isn't it enough that this [illegible] means so much to our [illegible] most 300 years [illegible] and just [illegible] but eating?

What could the mother do? All [illegible] mind is ready [illegible] the mind of a [illegible] who is not a mother—for something with which to glorify Thanksgiving to her child.

Of course she finally dug up the story of the sufferings and triumphs of the pilgrims. She didn't just read it out of a book to Little Boy. She word painted that forest and the little log houses, the pilgrim maids and men and the few queer, sober, hardworking little children, the great bronzed Indians and the sunlight that glinted through the forest and through the hearts of these pioneer folk when they realized that God had so prospered their hard, hard work that there was food enough to last them during the coming winter.

When the mother pictured the log barns and the rude bins and cells, all full of grain, Little Boy said, "Oh, I'm so glad!"

"So were they, son, and so they set aside a day for their children's children forever to thank God for all the good things that grow."

"Is there enough for everybody?" asked Little Boy.

So then mother told him that, although there is enough for everybody, still everybody doesn't get enough. She told him of all the kind people who try to help the "left out ones" on Thanksgiving day, and Little Boy, while they picked raisins and cleaned currants and made cooky men, planned one of everything for themselves and one for the "left out ones."

Thus Little Boy found something in Thanksgiving besides just eating.—Mrs. Blanche Cole Rosedale in New York Evening Sun.

ECHOES OF ASSOCIATION.

Closing Proceedings at Meeting of Baptists.

The final session of the Baptist General Association was held in Clarendon Church Monday evening.

A rising vote of thanks was extended the church and community following the reading and approving of the minutes.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the Woman's Prohibition League of America, presided over by Mrs. Georgia May Jacobson, of Richmond. The association named a committee to erect a tablet at Ashwood Church, Keysville, in memory of the first total abstinence society in the South.

A resolution providing for the holding of a pastors' conference on Monday night and Tuesday, preceding the sessions of the association, was offered.

Dr. George B. Eager, delivered an address on "The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary." He brought greetings from the president of the institution and also from the sixteen Virginia students now there. The attendance at the seminary is the largest in history, about 300 students now studying for the ministry, while the women's training school has sixty-nine students. The total enrollment is expected to reach the 500 mark before the midwinter session begins. In his remarks Dr. Eager stressed the point that the pastor is the key to the situation in every time of crisis and need. He said:

"Some ecclesiastical forms may be absolute, but the church that is abreast of the times is needed now, and will continue to have a place in the world. But such a church needs more and more a thoroughly trained ministry. Sometimes God takes a man from anywhere and sends him out to win men by telling their own experiences, yet we must have men who are educationally trained for the ministry. So there is every argument for a balanced manhood, trained mind and a knowledge of Bible, God and man."

He said the seminary was now doing the best work in its history.

President O. E. Sams, of the Board of Home Missions, read the report of that body. The board received $530,000. Virginia giving $27,000 last year.

It was reported that 38,000 converts were baptised during the year and 261 churches were constituted.

The board has thirty-four mountain schools and in these are more than 5,000 boys and girls who are being developed into useful men and women.

The board asked Virginia to give $34,000 this year.

Dr. B. L. Gray, of Atlanta, spoke on "Home Missions." "In every State in Dixie where the Baptists outnumber other denominations they have prohibition," he declared. "The man in jail with the truth is free," the speaker continued. "The man outside in error is in bonds. Six States in the South have more Baptists than all other denominations combined, and in these States prohibition is coming to be effective. When the Home Mission Board was organized seventy years ago there were 250,000 white Baptists in the Southland. Today there are 2,500,000 white Baptists and the colored Baptists have not been counted."

The association adjourned at a late hour.

APPEAL OF THE HOSPITAL

Alexandria's Deserving Institution Makes Thanksgiving Appeal

The friends of the Alexandria Hospital are again reminded that Thanksgiving is the season when we look to them for donations of money, groceries provisions, of all kinds, in short any and everything that can be made useful in such an Institution.

Our superintendent and her assistant have been unwearied and with their own efficient services supplanted by that of the nurses a wonderful amount of work has been done.

We have a staff of able and interested physicians and all is going on prosperously, but our friends must not forget that we need their help. If they fall short or fail to some to our aid, our work must stop. The hospital has for its constant aim, the furnishing of the best attention to the sick and suffering, at as small an expense as possible, and if need be to give this service gratis. Each year a large number of patients are treated gratuitously, but it is only through the hearty co-operation of its many friends that its measure of usefulness has been so large. This fall especially we have had an unusual number of poor and suffering who have taxed the hospital to the limit of its capacity and means. Let us then hear from you on Thanksgiving Day, send your donations as God has prospered you, or come to the hospital with hands full of gifts and see for yourself what your co-operation enables us to do remembering too that "God loves a cheerful giver."

By order of the Board.

CASE OF CAPT. BOY-ED

Alleged to Have Been Director and Supervisor of German System

New York, Nov. 24—Capt. Richard Bod-Ed, naval attache of the German Embassy, was named as the "director and supervisor" of the scheme to coal and supply German warships through clearance of vessels by false papers.

The activities of the man commonly reputed to be chief of Germany's elaborate espionage system in this country became a matter of court record at the trial of the four officials of the Hamburg-American Line.

Despite a thunderous storm of objections Boy-Ed was pictured as principal financier of the alleged plot to aid the German commerce raiders. A witness whom the government frankly presented as an innocent "dummy" in the transaction declared that he disbursed a fund of $750,000 at the direction of the attache.

Kitchener Says Great Britain will Have 4,000,000 and Russia 6,000,0000

Paris, Nov. 24—Earl Kitchener, the British secretary for war, in conversation with Greek officials in his recent visit to Athens, is reported to have declared that England will have by next March 4,000,000 soldiers under arms and will be in a position to arm and provision 6 000,000 Russians and that consequently it would show great stupidity to think the war would end otherwise than in complete defeat for Germany.

This information is contained in an Athens dispatch, which adds that Lord Kitchener, admitted that the declaration of war found the entente powers insufficiently prepared for so long a campaign, but said that the allies had utilized the time that has since elapsed to complete their military preparedness.
